PERFECTING OUR STYLE

Style is that certain something that makes a school special. Sure some schools have style, but Essex is one of a kind. At Essex Junction, teamwork is the key, not only sportswise, but academically, too. It's amazing to see all of the people who attend games, dances, and special assemblies sponsored by the school.

Style is shown from hall to hall and room to room. Posters and murals cover the walls expressing pride and dedication to our school. We express our style by the way we dress, the classes we take, the friends we have, and by the way we live.

Style is that certain something that makes a school special. Sure, some schools have their style. Essex is one of a kind.

PORTRAIT OF A LIFESTYLE

Imagine yourself as a freshman walking for the first time down the halls of Essex Junction High when suddenly, coming from a classroom, you hear the strains of "Happy Birthday" accompanied by the tap-tap-tapping of shoes on wood. Your curiosity takes over all better judgment as you edge closer to the door to peer in. You find a classroom of students laughing and clapping at the sight of a man standing on a desk singing "Happy Birthday" to an obviously embarrassed victim.

The next day you casually stroll past the classroom hoping to get another glance at this teacher. Amidst the noise and confusion you hear the word GAS — Now why in the world would a teacher be talking about GAS; unless of course, that teacher is Mr. Ellis Severance. Yes, the Mr. Severance that everyone seems to be talking about. This GAS he speaks of, by the way, is not an ordinary gas like hydrogen or unleaded. This GAS has style!

It stands for The Gospel According to Severance. Now you wonder, what kind of person would make up an acronym like GAS? A person who wishes to lead students to formulate their own opinions and ideas with a final goal of having students develop the skill of critically thinking for themselves. Mr. Severance, the 1988 Yearbook is dedicated to you for your unique teaching style. Thank you for your support and dedication.

FOLLOWING THE METRIC ROAD

Angles and Lines And Rulers OH MY!!

Equations and Proofs
and Square Roots OH
MY!!

Imagine sitting in a class waiting for the teacher to come in, contemplating what you're going to do when the bell rings for class to end. Suddenly the room begins to spin, gradually rotating faster and faster. Seconds later the room is still. You get up . . . walk uneasily to the door . . . and as you pass through it you realize you are no longer inside the comforting walls of school. You search frantically for some sign of familiarity, but all you see for miles around are numbers. Numbers being added, subtracted, squared, and multiplied, all approaching you at different angles. You think, "Boy this place has word problems!"

On a large platform a sign states WELCOME TO THE LAND OF MATH. You try to analyze the situation — "What did my math teacher tell me to do in times like this?" But all around the numbers are jumping up singing, "We're off to see the wizards, the wonderful wizards of math, we hear they're the wizards of math whatever the equation is."

Reliving Our Style

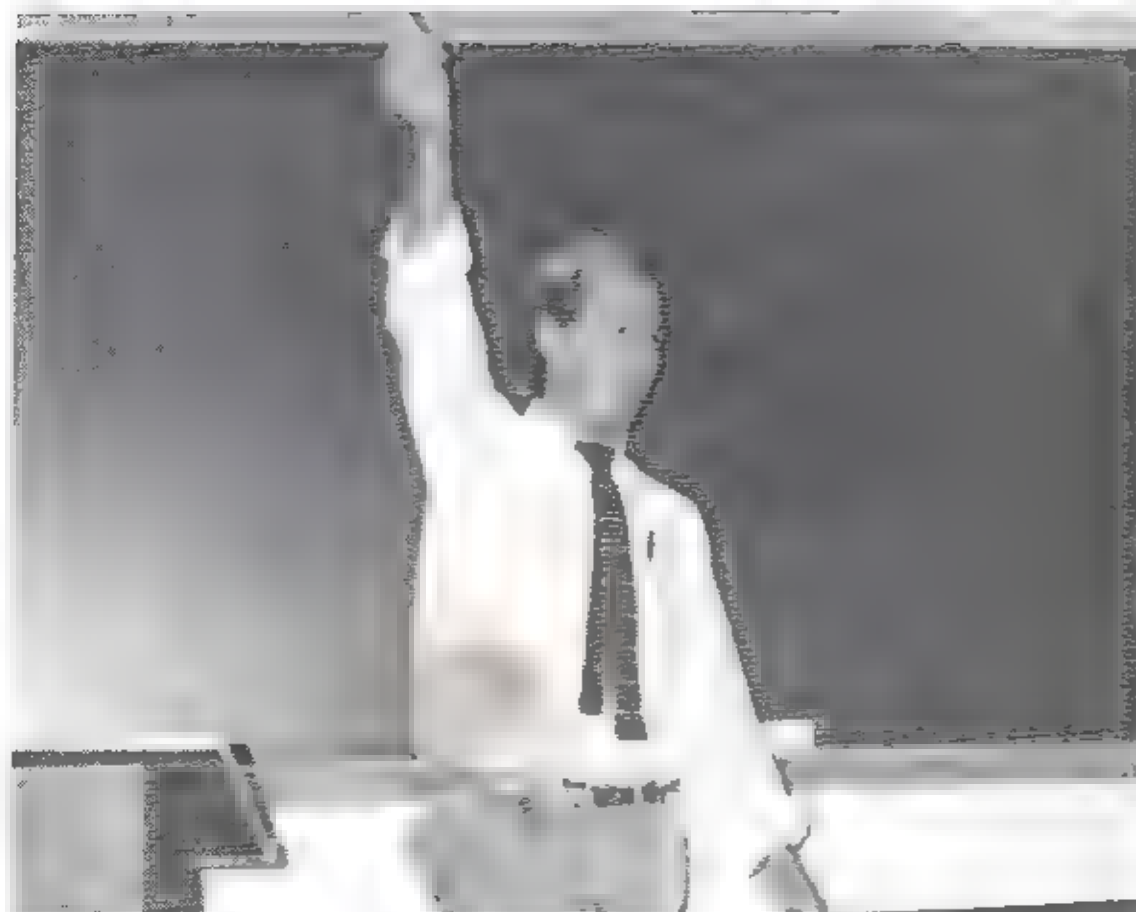

It is said that history eventually repeats itself. If so, will we one day find ourselves traveling to a one-room schoolhouse on the moon? Riding in a robot-run buggy, wearing homemade spacesuits and buckle-up boots, where will our energy come from?

The Vikings came rowing across the ocean in search of new lands to conquer. Nowadays, people go rowing, but usually in their living rooms, in search of conquering the battle of the bulge.

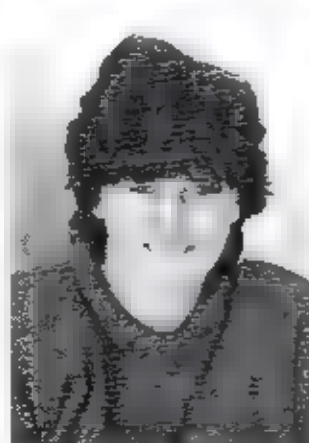

In days gone by, pioneers heard the cry of "Go West Young Man, Go West." People gathered up their belongings and the surge west began. Now the airlines advertise, "Go West People, Go West, the weather is warm, the surf is great and Disneyland is celebrating."

During the Great Depression, men were fighting and even killing trying to earn a decent living and have enough food for their families. In today's society, people are fighting to be the richest and fighting to be the first in line for a Big Mac.

It all narrows down to—yes, history does repeat itself, but through the change in the economy and the way people live, it is not always obvious. A slight decrease in the length of a haircut or hemline could have meant catastrophe in the 1800s, but today it is second nature. In the 50s, men never thought about letting their hair

FINE ARTS

Tucked away in a semi-obscure corner of the school, somewhere between the gym and cafeteria, lies the EJEC Fine Arts Department, home of some of the most creative minds and talented voices of the school. It is here that you can sing German hymns, play Beethoven's Second Symphony, or just dabble on the piano. The Fine Arts Department also comes alive after school with play rehearsal or chorus practice. Whatever is going on in the Department, before, during or after school, it's sure to be creative, wonderful, and JUST OUR STYLE!

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT — STRUTTING THEIR STYLE

When you think of high school English, what usually comes to mind — grammar, right? Sure, mastering the basics is necessary, but there's more to English class than participles and commas. Believe it or not, the Essex English Department has style — a creative style. An imaginative style that helps make EJEK one of the best all-around schools in the state. That style would not exist were it not for our English faculty — that patient, understanding, underrated and overworked group of dedicated individuals. You may not know or appreciate it, but they help make English fun and writing exhilarating. Through writing, they help us express our opinions and feelings.

EVERY JUNIORS' DREAM: TO BE A SENIOR!

To Be Free — To Be Anywhere

Every Junior and Senior was free to be anywhere — except C wing and off school grounds. We crammed for physics during history, ate during study hall and slept through the test. We dreaded the PSATs. The night before we sat on the phone asking friends what "Plethora" was and what the devil "magnanimous" meant. Our junior year dragged — we wanted to be Seniors. We wanted out.

Then it came — that messed-up year — applications, college essay scholarships, major tests and projects all due on the same day. We pulled our hair out running from meeting to meeting. We waited four years for this work and insanity — actually we waited for Senior skip day, squirt gun day, senior hat and shades day, and the right to be ROWDY!! To be a Senior in all ways and have our own special style that made us what we are — CRAZY!!

Harmonic Glory

Angelic voices float gracefully through the air, bringing a semblance of calm to the earth. Is it heaven? No, but close. It's the chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Etzler. Though you may think first of the concert choir when chorus comes up, that's not all there is to it. The department has flourished in recent years, with new groups every year such as Madrigals, Cameratas, and the barbershop harmonies of the Triple S group.

Vocal music has always thrived at Essex in every style and form possible, and this year is no exception. The concert choir, in all its harmonic glory, continues to "Wow" audiences at concerts. The madrigals held a Renaissance Festival in mid-December, complete with a medieval-style feast and all the singing and merriment one could possibly digest. The Camerata singers, a new addition to the voice department, made an impressive debut as well. The Triple S singers capped off their success with a brilliant addition to the celebration of birthdays at Essex — the singing birthday-gram, guaranteed to redden faces and quiet cafeterias.

Band and Orchestra

TRANQUILITY, CULTURE, POWER

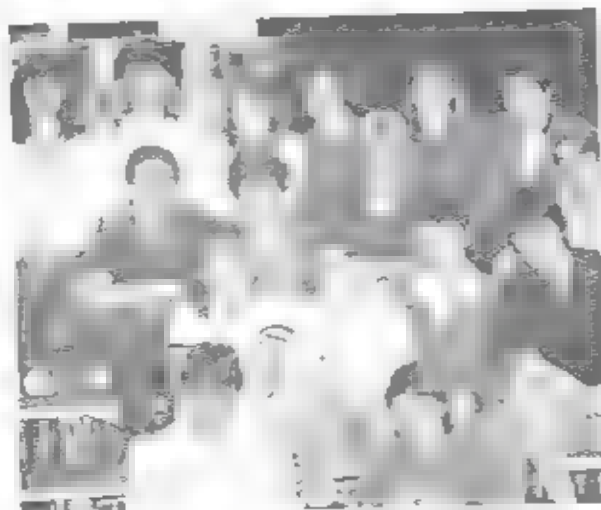

Stage lights reflect off the brightly polished instruments, emphasizing their clear tuning notes. Flutes practice in harmony as the conductor takes the stage. Nestled in the cushioned seats, the audience hushes in the familiar anticipation of every concert. The first notes of the Beethoven symphony or Sousa march sound, and the baton carries the cadence like driftwood on a wave. Inspired by the spirit in the notes, the audience perks up its ear, then brings the concert to a triumphant close with its appreciative applause

Such is a band and orchestra concert at EJEC — inspiring, powerful, magical. Our band is the flag-bearer, pepping us up at football games, strutting our pride in parades. The orchestra is an island of tranquility, culture and power through its interpretations of the classics. Together, they are instrumental music at Essex — showing our style as no other group can

Ten HUT! Polish your shoes and iron your uniform. Attention! Form those perfect rows, soldiers!

Boot Camp? No. It's the Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, better known as A.F.J.R.O.T.C. A division of the Air Force, this organization prepares high school students for potential careers in the military, but it's more than that. A.F.J.R.O.T.C. also gives these young people a sense of dedication and discipline.

This year A.F.J.R.O.T.C. did a lot in terms of service. They retired the old school flag this year. They marched in parades and served as color guards at sports events. The members also receive many other benefits from their participation in this organization, such as scholarships for college and useful training in aerospace technology.

So snap to attention and look sharp — A.F.J.R.O.T.C. is in town!

NHS: National Honor Society

NHS stands, of course, for National Honor Society. But, did you ever wonder what the NHS really stands for? Here's what.

The NHS is an organization of seniors (some inducted in their junior year, some in their senior) who have records of scholarship and service good enough to make them the cream of the crop.

Being in the NHS doesn't just mean a candlelit ceremony and something to put on your college applications, belonging to the NHS means helping people, too.

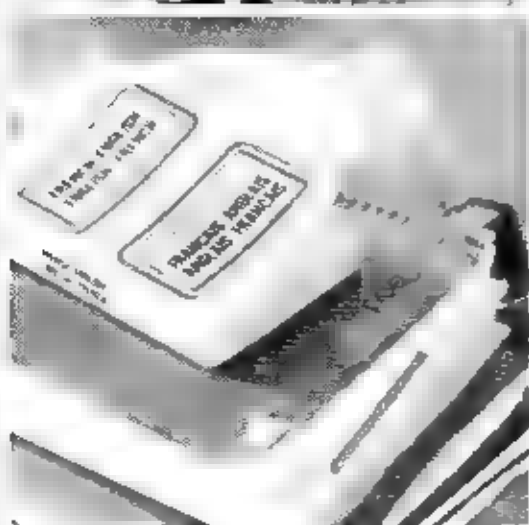

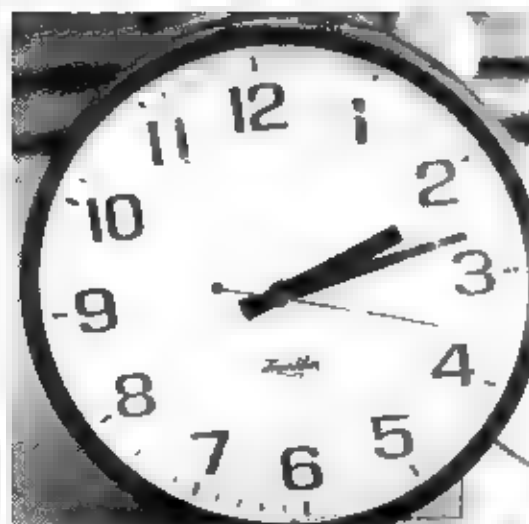

This year's group chose to tutor EJHS students in need of a little academic assistance as their main project. They also helped bring a little Christmas spirit to an area nursing home when they went caroling (Without, ahem, Mr. Nelligan!)

So, there's what the "H" and "S" stand for — help, scholarship, and service. How about the "N"? (No, it's not for Mr. Nelligan!) Perhaps the "N" is for the new members we will induct this spring, beginning anew the cycle of recognizing the best of the graduating class by allowing them to help others.

National Honor Society: First Row: Lori DesRoches, Valerie Frost, Sheila Poulin. Second Row: Mr. Basworth, Adviser, Amy Scanlon, Julie Ellis, Kate Blanchette, Sarah Escholz, Allison Bowker, Kara Villamil. SKI CLUB

Swish, swish! The wind rushes through your hair and the powder sprays 10 feet in front of you. Moguls arise out of nowhere and suddenly you are airborne for a split second and your breath is halted in your throat.

Every skier's dream — and for the first two months of the season, it was only a dream for the Essex Ski Club, as snow was in high demand. Even a lack of snow didn't stop the Ski Club from anticipating the weekly trip to Bolton Valley. At the first sign of precipitation, they're off to the slopes to make their dream a reality.

OUT IN FRONT

FLAG TEAM

Blue and gold sheets of fabric gracefully glide on the currents of air, snapping back into order with the slightest twitch of a wrist. The crowd's anticipation grows with the silent fanfare of flags signaling the start of the game. The tassels on the team's boots bounce in sync with the beat of the band's tune, and their arms move confidently under the heavy burden of the school colors.

This is the flag team in its resplendent performance glory, but don't think these routines and steps arrange themselves magically in order and sync to the music. Each routine, like any other performing group's show, takes many hours of practice, sweat and training. Only then are the girls ready to go on. But when they do, you can be sure it's with a great amount of grace, rhythm and style!

Leadership Day

It was 8 a.m., December 3, 1987 and everyone was boarding the bus to the Essex Teen Center for the eighth annual "Leadership Day". This day was to be a huge success!

"Leadership Day" is ten-hour marathon event in which the teens of Essex Junction Educational Center and Champlain Valley Union High School learn leadership skills. Activities of the day involve hearing various speakers, engaging in creative activities, and formulating personal leadership goals.

This day was by far the longest and with the largest number of participants and we hope next year's to be even better

The sunshine from the east
Glistens through the sides of my
North-bound sunglasses.
I can see my eye reflecting
On the back of the dark lenses
As I squint.

The road rolls on beneath
My age softened sneakers.
I walk past a snow-white moth
As it lay on the cracked cement.
Among the leaves of fall,
Like a fallen angel,
It goes unnoticed. — Doug Utton

Video Club

Lights, Camera, Action! The Video Club is made up of many young visual artists who have an eye for the camera and the desire to accomplish. Through hands-on experience, members learn the fundamentals of production, direction, and editing.

They are able to use their knowledge to produce real television broadcasts. Most importantly, they learn to work as a team and are able to carry with them all these skills to use in a visual arts career after high school or college.

CLOSE-UP

Did you ever want to get a close-up view of your government? Ever want to hear the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court yell for order in the highest court in the country? Or feel the anticipation of the crowd as the President enters his press conference? Ever want to see the most powerful legislative body in the world, the U.S. Senate, in action? That, and more, is what Close-Up is all about.

Every year, the members of Close-Up go to Washington D.C., but it is not all that simple. These people got there as a result of their business savvy, creativity and dedication, not to mention the ability to sell all manner of baked goods, flowers, and other various things to their fellow students. Their goal? The history-in-the-making atmosphere of D.C., the new faces and places, the taste of adventure. Want a part of the excitement? Join Close-Up and see the democracy in action.

Future leaders of America?

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

Have you ever had a true taste of being part of national and international government? The Model U.N. program is an effort to bring students an increased awareness of current world affairs and allows them to debate their views in the true United Nations fashion. Several schools in the area represent different countries and on selected dates come together to debate the controversial international issues currently being discussed in world politics. The arguments can get heated as the students fight to defend themselves and attack the others' political standing.

So, where was our country? You're right, this group doesn't look like the fighting type!

Keen Enthusiasm

Each year a rag-tag collection of aspiring Essex computer jockeys assemble to test their acumen against the rest of the world. With keen enthusiasm, and a little arm twisting, 23 hearty souls participated in this year's 4 regular season contests, plus the year-ending All-Star contest. The outstanding individual performer this year was Chris Dawson. He maintained his position as one of the best students in the country. Other inspirational performances were turned in by 4-year team members Figment Uttecht and Victor Procrastinator Adler.

CEREBRUM SWEAT

When you think of teamwork, you usually think of sports, right? That term applies to other fields of competition as well. Scholars' Bowl is a prime example. Five brains working in unison to produce the answers to quick-recall questions in extremely varied categories. It's enough to make your cerebrum sweat.

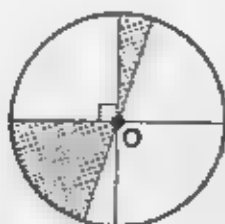

The St. Michael's Scholars' Bowl is a sort of year-long tournament among Vermont high schools, with the matches broadcast on Vermont Public Radio and the top prize a scholarship to St. Michael's College. This year's team didn't quite get that far, but they're a young and eager team. Next year's tourney should be the place where they really get to show their style and brainpower — stay tuned!

- 3-3. The area of the shaded portion of the rectangle shown at the right is 6π , and the area of the semicircle is 18π . Find the EXACT perimeter of the rectangle.

3-3. The area of the semicircle is 18π ; so its radius is 6, and the base of the rectangle is 12. Since the area of the rectangle is $6\pi + 18\pi = 24\pi$, the width of the rectangle is 2π . Finally, the perimeter = $24 + 4\pi$.

- 4-1. If two of the three diameters are perpendicular, as shown, what percent of circle O is shaded?

4-1. Since vertical angles are congruent, the unshaded sector of the lower-left quadrant has the same area as the shaded sector of the upper-right quadrant. Thus, the sum of the shaded regions is the equivalent of a quadrant, and the per cent of the circle it occupies is 25 , or 25% .

- Q: Which city, other than Washington, D.C., served longest as US capital?

A: Philadelphia

- Q: Name the famous Austrian composer whose works include, "The Magic Flute" and "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik."

A: W.A. Mozart

- Q: Which British author wrote children's stories about the mythical land of Narnia and what was the name of the main character, a lion?

A: C.S. Lewis, Aslan

- Q: Which modern-day miracle drug was discovered when a mold spore accidentally landed on a Petri dish?

A: Penicillin

MIND CHALLENGING

If you have looked at those math problems to your left and said only "Huh?", then you probably have a great deal of respect for the Math League. These math wizards participated in tests that had questions much harder than these and many more of them, too.

Beforehand, they take practice tests and train under the direction of advisers Mrs. Rich & Mrs. Faherty. Then they take the test with the hopes of winning awards.

Next year, the Math League will have many more returning underclassmen wizards with one more year of experience and even harder problems for the 1989 yearbook!

Shh! It's a secret! Busy bodies mysteriously prepare for what has been termed around the school as "Swarm Shenanigans" — which is the recognition of birthdays, hobbies, holidays, retirements and personal achievements of colleagues.

Some recent notable "Stings" have included: "Homet of the Month" luncheons in the Colonial Room, and the successful Huga-Hollis campaign.

A Night to Remember

The 1987 EJC Christmas Ball was indeed a night to remember. The air was filled with good cheer and holiday spirit. Snowflakes, balloons, and Christmas trees transformed the gym into a true winter wonderland.

It was a delightful surprise to see friends and teachers dressed in their finest formal wear, and dancing the night away. Christmas just wouldn't be the same without this traditional salute to a holiday celebrated around the world.

Chris: Hey Lori, What do you want to do tonight?
Lori: Well, there's gonna be a dance at school tonight
Chris: Yeah, but dances get so boring after a while, especially with a D.
Lori: You're right. How about a movie?
Chris: Yeah? Let's go see Rocky V, or how about Friday the 13th, Part X?
Lori: Well, I'd rather see that new Molly Ringwald movie, or Cinderella
Chris: Yuck! We can never agree on anything. I wish there was something to do that we'd both enjoy.
Lori: Well, like what?

Chris: I don't know ... hey, how about the new Essex Teen Center?

Lori: The Teen Center? I've never been there

Chris: It's really great! They're always doing something new. They had a Youth Fair last summer, and the dances are more casual than the ones at school.

Lori: Sounds great! What else can you do there?

Chris: Well, they had karate demonstrations, puppet shows and even a beach party. Or you can just hang out with your friends after school. The Cuts are gonna be there tonight!

Lori: The Cuts?! Now that sounds exciting! Pick me up at 8

BEOWULF

The Legend

A ROCK MUSICAL

"Costumes, we need costumes!" cries a frazzed Mr. Cabrera. Students rush about frantically rehearsing lines and songs for the performance. Fears of a forgotten line or prop race through minds. Just minutes before the play — are they ready? Suddenly the lights come up to reveal a dazzling blue stage and the air is filled with song. But, evil lurks beneath

Fog covers the swamp where Grendel lives, eerie music fills the hall. Who will fight the evil Grendel? Fear not, for Beowulf is here! The deed is done, Grendel is dead, and our hero returns to his beloved Princess Hygd for joyous celebration. "Beowulf" is a thrill never to be forgotten. The "B" on our hero's chest, Grendel's hair, and of course, Grendel's mother and her legs. This play is filled with action, excitement, humor, and drama. The Essex Junction players have it all, ... and of course, with style!

CLASSICS CLUB

Salve! It was a pleasant evening in the fall. Latin students found their way into the library to participate in one of the activities of Classics Club: The viewing of the Tragedy Iphigenia. Classics Club is based on Roman culture, but this tragedy seemed like Greek to me.

Saturnalia. The Latin alternative to a Christmas party. We dined from a fine buffet and went from house to house, enlightening selected households with our Latin Christmas carols. Don't ask me what they mean, I just sing them.

Springtime brings the Roman Banquet. The Latin I students sponsor it and the Freshmen get to be the cheerful servants and wait on the rest of us! This day is spent sampling Roman cuisine and showing off the latest Toga fashions. "Eat your heart out Julius Caesar."

AMNESTY

All over this world, people are being held against their will for so-called political "crimes" against their governments. These prisoners of conscience, as they are called by Amnesty, are not criminals but victims of the cruel regimes they live under. The founders of Amnesty International decided that one way to promote their release was to write cordial but firm letters to these regimes, and letter-writing chapters have sprung up across the country.

The Essex Chapter, formed just last year, continues to do its part in this crusade for justice. This year, the members wrote to such countries as South Africa and Venezuela to ask for the unconditional pardons of several prisoners of conscience. We can only hope that justice will be done, and if it is, the Amnesty International members can feel proud to have been a part of it.

GMTI GREEN MOUNTAIN TEENAGE INSTITUTE

Walk up to the average person in school and ask them what GMTI is and they will probably just stare at you blankly. GMTI is not a terrorist group, or are we spies. Actually, it's a group promoting the awareness of the effects of drugs on human behavior. Going to Founders School, we enlightened all the fifth grade with our skit; which included a lesson in acceptance of others — even if they do wear out of-style, tacky paisley shirts. Working under the direction of Ms. Ferries, they also contributed to the success of the Well-ness Week in March. Throughout the summer, members attended a week-long program learning about all kinds of drugs and their effects, but also how to function for a week with no sleep as well

YEARBOOK

The book you hold in your hands did not just appear magically overnight, believe us. All of us. This book is the product of our blood, our sweat, our tears, our late afternoons. (Well, maybe not our blood . . .) This book was fussed over, cursed over, and argued over to no end until it became what it is now, and it's the best we can do. And hey, we editors and staff are proud of this book, and we hope you are too. It's innovative, fresh, and we hope it will set an example for future staffs to follow.

And so, from the bottom of our layouts, cropping tools, and cameras, we'd like to tell all the students and staff at EJHS that you all are . . . JUST OUR STYLE!!!

Who's got the ball? Hey are you all right down there?

Bonza!

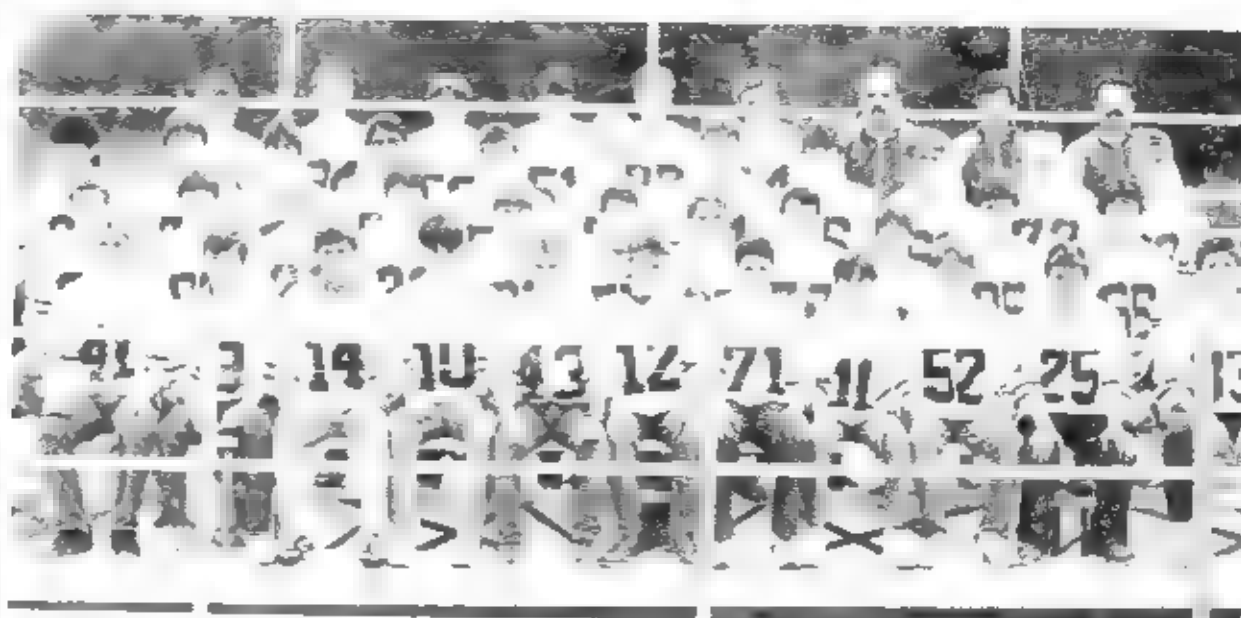

Bonza! Five players yell as they jump head first into a puddle, looking up as mud drips, grass is stuck to their helmets, the coaches just sit back and shake their heads thinking, "This is a winning team? How could it be possible?"

Imagine being a player on the opposing football team. You are ready for the first play to begin but ... looking at the opposing offensive line where each player averages 50 lbs. more than your own, your team's defense takes on the strategy, "Move over and let them walk on through."

With twenty-seven returning lettermen and a handful of new talent, Essex was picked to win, and we did — taking the title of State Champs!!

But what the spectator does not know
Many an hour we spend running the ground
Always practicing our

We did not try to prove a

Except for our love of the

Though all the dirt and grass
did fling
We did not wallow in the

We need not bow our heads
in shame

We left the season somewhat blurry
With many friends anew
Through injury and misery
This team really pulled through

As the autumn sun threatens to sink low beneath the mountains in a premature sunset, there is action of the field below. A quick, muscled young man in crackling Mylar shorts approaches the ball at the fastest run he can manage. Pow! The ball arcs towards the goal, seeming to take all the grace from the athlete in order to achieve the most nearly perfect shaped flight. The ball hits the back of the net and is enveloped in white mesh, much to the dismay of the yellow-clad goaltender. On the sidelines, the scorekeeper clicks another point onto the board and the crowd claps, not only in appreciation of the goal but also in approval of the tremendous athletic skill of all the players.

At the end of the game, the sun silently sinks behind the trees, as if it had waited for the final buzzer. The two teams, one triumphant, one less so, head back to the locker room.

Oh, the sounds of a basketball game. The airy "swish!" of the net as the ball s through, the continuous squeak of rubber sneaker soles on the wooden floor, spirited chants of the cheerleaders as they lead the crowd in shouts of "Defense!" "Way to go, Essex, way to go!"

Then there are the fans themselves — holding their collective breath as the thrower releases the orange orb, erupting in triumphant screams at a basket, clap as an injured player limps back to the bench.

The players — don't forget the players — the reasons for the cheerleaders, the the cheers. Two bands of sweaty young men pacing the varnished floor at break speed, struggling to please the crowd and themselves by sinking that ever-elusive basket.

Oh the sounds, the sights, the smells, the feelings of a basketball game. No matter whether they win or lose, our basketball teams all sport their style well and provide with that wonderful winter athletic haven, THE BASKETBALL GAME!

A SHOE-IN

The scrape of metal and click of sticks are familiar sounds as the team warms-up for what may or may not be an easy "shoe-in" goal.

Anticipation is mirrored on white ice as the crowd cheers with the scored goal or boos with the penalty, as the Essex Hornets glide through another winter season.

Anyone for a game of twister?

LOSE? WHAT'S THAT?

The alone guy makes his way around the stifling hot gym. As he gets closer, he is barely recognizable — three sweat-shirts, hat, gloves. What, you might ask is this man doing? He is trying to make weight for an approaching wrestling meet, featuring the unbeatable Hornets. A wrestling portfolio means hard work and dedication. For some it means skipping meals to make weight, for others, doubling meals to gain. Running stairs, playing piggy back and leapfrog sound like child's play, but this is the way the Hornet wrestling team takes State and New England Championship.

If you think you are beaten, you are,
 If you think you dare not, you don't
 If you'd like to win, but think you can't,
 It's almost a cinch you won't
 If you think you'll lose, you're lost
 For out in the world we find Success begins with a fellow's will,
 It's all in the state of mind.

Wings

Let us be like a bird for a moment perches

On a frail branch while he sings;
 Though he feels it bend, yet he sings his song,

Knowing that he has wings.

Victor Hugo

Sarah always sang life's song, no matter what happened. We all learned how to live our lives more fully from her. Thank you, Sarah. Katie Blan-

Nature's first green is gold,
 Her hardest hue to hold
 Her early leaf's a flower,
 But only so an hour
 So leaf subsides to leaf
 So Eden sank to grief
 So dawn goes down today.
 Nothing gold can stay.

Robert Frost

You are gold, Sarah. We miss you and cherish your everlasting inspiration

We remember the laughter . . .

Pam,

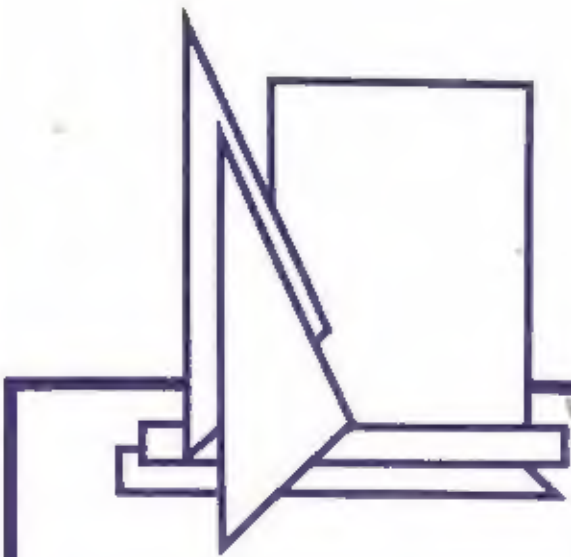

Well this is the last chance

Good luck in life and I hope
